St. Patrick's Day

THE DOGS DO BARK

Lady LEI LE HUA Pratt is doing a wee bit o' hornpipe hula these days to express her joy at the good news that her husband, Laird LEI LE HUA Pratt is safe in San Francisco after having been evacuated from Honolulu. He was there with his master and mistress, Major and Mrs. R. W. Pratt, during the Pearl Harbor attack and Lady LEI LE HUA was terribly worried about him. She was greatly relieved to have him back on the Mainland, safe and sound, and hopes he will soon be in Carmel with her and their daughter, TIBBIE WINKUS. She and TIBBIE live with Laird's master's father and mother, Colonel and Mrs. R. A. Pratt.

The LEI LE HUAS are a very colorful and interesting Scotty family. Fascinating Lady LEI LE HUA was born and raised in the Islands, and has a great deal of the Polynesian charm. She loves the Islands and the Hawaiian legends and chants and hulas. She often entertains her friends, on a winter's evening, with songs and stories of old Hawaii. Her daughter, TIBBIE WINKUS, however, is a Mainlander, and is as Scotch as her name. She loves mist, and heather, and good Scotch tweeds. The Laird is all American. He wants to go right back to the Islands and get a chance to chew up a couple of those despicable little yellow men.

CANIS MINOR Sears, dashing Carmel Highlander, is home again after a round-the-country jaunt with his mistress, Millicent Sears. CANIS took in all the sights, from these sunny shores to Maine's rock-bound coast, and back again. It was down in the sunny South that he ran into difficulty, however, when he had a slight disagreement with one of those hot-blooded Southern gentlemen, and it ended up with dear old Cunnel Winehaired making a pretty good attempt at chewing off CANIS MINOR'S little black ear.

Other than that, though, most of CANIS' adventures were of a more romantic nature, as exciting, but not quite as violent. He had a wonderful time, but nevertheless, he is very glad to be back home after his long absence and is busily revisiting his old haunts to catch up on local news via the sniffograph.

Young FRIAR TUCK Farrington is a young man who uses his head. When a situation arises which he finds unsatisfactory, he calmly sits down and figures out a way of remedying it. Take, for instance, his mistress, Miss Frances Farrington, leaving him in the car while she goes shopping. TUCKY gets bored if he has to sit there too long, so he decided to figure out something to do about getting his mistress to come back to the car when he wanted her to. And he found a very effective way. He just puts his paw on the horn and blows it and blows it until his mistress comes. He is very nonchalant about it and pretended not even to notice the passers-by on Ocean Avenue the other day who stopped to watch him and admire his intelligence as he impatiently blew the horn.

"If you live in Precinct 3, check with a city map to find the number of your block. If the number is among those listed above, you have no block leader. If you cannot volunteer yourself, talk to your neighbors, get someone in your block to fill this vitally important post. Any volunteer can enroll through the Civilian Defense Registration office or with John Neikirk, your Senior Air Raid Warden. Telephone 654.

The Pal of the Army is TOBY "AIREDALE" Edwards. It is TOBY who is always on hand at Pacific House, the "home away from home" for soldiers on leave in Monterey, to welcome the boys who come there with a friendly paw-shake. It is TOBY who listens to the stories of their adventures and their tales of woe. He admires their girls' pictures, and helps them write letters home. He has a special bag of tricks to amuse them, the favorite of which is wearing a jaunty little overseas cap, sitting up at attention and giving a smart salute.

TOBY and his master, Sergeant Harry Edwards, do everything they can to make the soldiers feel at home. Between them they have helped more than one lonesome boy over a bad case of homesickness. With his friendly manner and his understanding eyes, TOBY is a real pal to the Army.

Mission Notes

The ladies of the Carmel Mission Parish sponsored a dance for the soldiers of Fort Ord last Friday evening. A group of 75 men poured into the gaily decorated Crespi Hall and found awaiting them the hostesses and a large group of lovely young girls from the peninsula, in their bright, pretty "formals" looking themselves like a bouquet of spring flowers.

Father O'Connell welcomed the guests of honor, Captain Charles McCauley and his charming wife, and the soldiers, Captain Shelburn Robison, master of ceremonies, called the dances with a genial and friendly banter that started the ball rolling merrily.

In the middle of the evening, the Troupers of the Gold Coast presented a program of olio numbers from the First Theater's production of the "Forty-Niners." Dick Boone introduced the performers—Charlotte Wales, who sang her sprightly and pert song, "Won't You Be My Baby Boy?" to a delighted audience, followed by the talented and irresistible Hildebrand sisters (with Evelyn Hildebrand at the piano) with their engaging and gay specialty songs and dances. Dick Boone then took the floor and brought down the house with his diverting pantomime and amusing rendition of the trials and tribulations of the famous Head of Anne Boleyn. The last number was the dance team of Welty and McMenamin with their clever and delightful burlesque of songs from over the border. The vigorous and wholehearted applause expressed the enjoyment of the audience and their appreciation of the Gold Coast Troupers' share in making the evening a great success.

After the program refreshments were served from the long table decorated with fruit blossoms and sparkling with candles and silver. Gay groups stood about sampling with hearty enjoyment the many kinds of cake and sandwiches provided, or sat in threes or foursomes laughing and talking in a spirit of real comradeship.

At midnight the party broke up. Captain McCauley thanked the hostesses, the ladies of the parish, the charming young girls for their gracious hospitality to his men and paid tribute to the Gold Coast Troupers for coming over after their performance in Monterey to contribute so generously to the

Army Presents Musical Satire

A musical satire with original words and music by professional artists, "Route Order", will be presented in Sunset Auditorium Wednesday evening.

It is a present to Carmel from Troop A of the 107th Cavalry now stationed at Fort Ord.

"Carmel has been nice to us and now we want to do something for you," say spokesmen for Troop A.

The men have drawn on the abundant talent in their group and produced something on the order of a Princeton Triangle show. Eight "beautiful and brawny" cavalrymen will execute the precision routines in the best chorus girl manner.

They will also do a conga and Jack Butler will throw pounds of charm into an interpretation of Carmen Cabana, an ingenue from Brooklyn who suddenly finds herself in a bomb raid in a South evening's entertainment. He assured them all and Father O'Connell that it was an evening they would not soon forget.

The hostesses were: Mrs. Shelburn Robison, Mrs. C. Northrup, Mrs. Gertrude Stoney, Mrs. Margaret Despard, Mrs. J. McGrury, Mrs. Elsie Martinez, Miss Charlotte Dowd. Miss Micaela Martinez arranged the decorations of flowering acacia and fruit blossoms.

Snake Poll Unanimous Affirmative

Whether or not there will always be an Ireland is for the political economists to argue, but as long as there remains a single Irishman to brighten this earth with his charm, there will be a St. Patrick's Day. The Pine Cone Poll on the Snake Question established that fact this week when 27 Irishmen were interviewed and went on record TO A MAN that St. Patrick did, he surely did, and they are prepared to roll up their sleeves and discuss the matter with anybody who cares to raise a dissenting voice.

The question was presented in this manner:

Pine Cone Reporter: "There are no snakes in Ireland. Tradition has it that St. Patrick drove them out. Do you hold with that tradition?"

Twenty-seven Irishmen: "YES!"

Some in the Zoo
The Pine Cone cannot hope to name or quote in detail the Irishmen interviewed during the week, but here are a few: Michael Father O'Connell:

"There are no snakes in Ireland except in the Dublin Zoo. Tradition has it that St. Patrick drove them out. This is true in a sense that the snake is the symbol of evil and St. Patrick drove paganism—evil—out of Ireland when he converted the inhabitants to Christianity."

In this conservative statement Father O'Connell stood alone among his countrymen. The rest of them weren't having any symbolic snakes. They were talking about real, live, flesh and blood snakes with scales and a wiggle. And St. Patrick drove them out with his staff.

Evans Heads New CD Organization

Civilian Defense in Carmel was readjusted this week with Mayor Keith Evans as coordinator.

Malcolm Tarpey was placed in charge of senior wardens, the entire air raid warden organization and the control center, while Mrs. Cedric Rowntree will be executive secretary.

The office of personnel director and trouble shooter was delegated to Floyd Adams, who will help to organize each precincts along the lines used in his work as building inspector.

Senior and staff wardens will be given an intensive training course by Police Officer Frank Hay. They will be trained in the official War Department program which was recently absorbed by Mr. Hay at special school at Stanford University.

When these men complete the course, they will be thoroughly qualified air raid wardens, Mayor Evans states.

HAIL, ST. PATRICK

Carmel is not preponderately Irish in population. Then why does The Pine Cone make such a fuss over St. Patrick's day? For Fun—

We don't have enough fun. Nobody is having enough fun these grim days.

So we of The Pine Cone have given our time and effort to print a color cover on the paper and liven up the inside with a salute to St. Patrick's Day, hoping to create a bright spot in the general gloom that seems to be settling over the community as a backwash of the gloom that is settling over the nation.

It's natural, with the war going as it is at present, for the nation as a whole to be glum, but it is unnatural for Carmel to be glum.

Carmel is a vacation town. People who work and worry over the war look to us for relaxation and play in the days they spend here in search of the refreshment they need to carry on with their jobs. If we offer them gloom, we let them down.

We have our own local war jobs to do and we should do them as efficiently as we can, but we should also do them CHEERFULLY, and not let them and their serious implications weigh down our spirits. For to stir up what gaiety and fun we can is our responsibility as hosts in a vacation town—an important part of the war effort—our contribution to the maintenance of civilian morale.

WHAT PRICE KEEP KEITH?

The two columns next door comprise the lead-off spot in the paper. Last to be made up in the forms, they are held for the latest and the biggest news of the issue: I have turned them over to the Keep Keith Campaign, not because The Pine Cone has lined itself with the Keep Keithers, but because I believe that it is a question which interests a large number of Carmel citizens and, as such, deserves all the emphasis and space it needs for complete discussion.

The initial article shows the reaction of representatives among the creative workers, the business people, the newcomers and the old timers. It is a spattering of opinion, hastily assembled for the purpose of pointing up the discussion. Now, the pro and anti Keep-Keithers are invited to come forward and express themselves as fully and as vigorously as they choose. The Pine Cone space will continue to be available for free expression of opinion until election.

As for The Pine Cone's stand on the Keep Keith issue—

1. If legal action is taken before election to assure Keith Evans' remaining mayor, most of the zing will be taken out of the election, and anything that takes the zing out of anything is frowned at by The Pine Cone. The knowledge that one of the candidates will be chosen mayor after election gives life and interest to the campaign, and the "greatest number of votes" tradition is an inducement to voters to turn out in force. Also, the knowledge that they are choosing a possible mayor when they choose a councilman is a deterrent to the citizens from picking their councilmen for frivolous reasons. Remove that deterrent and I would not be surprised to find some of the livelier citizens running Pon Chung for Council.

2. Suppose the citizens take legal action to keep Keith. Then what about his successor? How long shall we want to keep HIM or have to keep him. Four years—six years—eight years—look at San Francisco! Do we want to change a tradition that makes possible our excellent system of rotating mayors when a general upheaval of city politics every two years is desired by Carmel, thoroughly characteristic of Carmel and expected of Carmel?

3. On the other hand there is a possibility of Keeping Keith without upsetting the established system, and it is worth consideration.

Here it is:

The council is under no obligation to hold to the tradition of selecting for mayor the man who gets the most votes. If

Keep Keith Evans As Carmel Mayor Supporters Urge

BOSTICK, KIP, BURKE SAY YES; BARDARSON, WHITE, STANIFORD AGAINST CHANGE IN TRADITION

Overnight a movement has developed to keep Keith Evans as mayor of Carmel. His friends and supporters, waking up to the fact that unless some action is taken immediately Carmel will have a new mayor after the council election even though Carmel may not want a new mayor, are contemplating a ways-and-means huddle to determine what can be done to keep Evans in office.

A letter received by The Pine Cone this week, states the situation concisely:

Box 1304, Carmel,
March 9, 1942.

To the Editor
The Carmel Pine Cone
Carmel, Cal.
Dear Madam:

The coming election in Carmel not only will decide who will be our new councilmen but also who will be our new mayor. As I understand the system, the incoming councilman who receives the most votes automatically becomes mayor. I also understand that this is by tradition, not by statute. Our present mayor, Keith Evans, has filled a difficult position in difficult times with remarkable success. I feel, and I know many others do, that we were very lucky to have any one as cool and capable as Mayor Evans in office through this winter and that it would be to the advantage of the town to retain him there as long as he is willing and able. I also

Booker Files for Council

William Ellsworth Booker filed his papers as candidate for councilman with City Clerk Saidee Van Brower Thursday morning, the only candidate to register officially since Fred McIndoe signed up last week.

In view of the fact that Saturday, March 14, is the deadline for filing, The Pine Cone got in touch with those citizens who are rumored to be among possible council candidates and received statements from incumbents McCreery and Godwin that they would run again.

Mrs. Perry Newberry said she intends to run and: "It is a privilege to live in Carmel. If I can further her interests by serving on the council I believe I should do so."

Booker's sponsors are: Barney Bracisco, Vincent A. Torres, Arnold Grimshaw, Fred Warren, Delbert Wermuth, Rudolph F. Ohm, Robert Harnisch, Elizabeth Harnisch, Virginia Pope Evans, Harriette Rowntree.

CARMEL FORUM HAS HOME DEFENSE SERIES

Blackout regulations and emergency police organization will divide the time with British War Films at Sunset Auditorium on Friday evening, March 13. Police Officer Charles Hay will discuss blackouts and explain the organization, duties, responsibilities and authority of the emergency police organization which he has been training. He will bring the latest information in civilian defense methods from the special school from which he has just returned. The school was held at Stanford University, it included a ten-day special training course.

Pictures to be shown include: "War and Order"; "Goofer Trouble"; "Transfer of Training" and others. The films are British War Films, made for training the British public to defend their homes. A question period will follow Mr. Hay's talk.

Last Friday, the first of four such meetings in the Forum series, Robert A. Norton explained methods used in putting out incendiary bombs. Mr. Norton displayed a model of a magnesium bomb, burned magnesium, showed how phosphorus leaves ignited when thrown on the stage floor and answered numerous questions. He said that one should treat an incendiary bomb with respect, but not fear it. His talk followed a film which showed a householder putting out a bomb which had penetrated a bedroom. Norton showed how a bomb, using the model, could be thrown out with a shovel, urged every householder to have a shovel, sandbags and some kind of hand-operated pump read for instant use in case of need.

Once a bomb has landed in your home, Norton said, it is your problem. The fire department may be busy with hundreds of others, yet with simple things you can reduce the damage to a minimum. The first thing is to wait for a minute to see if the bomb may explode. Meanwhile get your equipment ready. With a hose, if there is water pressure, or with a hand pump, put out the fire on curtains, furniture, or other objects. Then turn a spray, not a stream, on the bomb to make it burn out more rapidly. Or it may be possible to handle the bomb with a shovel and throw it bodily out of the house, taking care that it does not land where it may cause further trouble. Finally any fire in floors, sills, joists, etc., must be carefully put out.

Norton reminded that a pile of sand has been placed by the city on the vacant lot at the corner of Junipero and Ocean, where it may be had free for home protection. He stated that beach sand is all right if dry, but warned that sand which has been wet with salt water is rarely dry, and urged that any sand be dried out carefully.

Other sessions of the Forum will be held on Saturday, March 21, and Friday, March 27. They will be devoted to gas and high explosives and to fire fighting. Each session is held in the Sunset auditorium, each begins at 8 o'clock.

all are free, and at least three British films will be shown at each.

Carrying along her plan for a different display of Mexican products each Monday evening in her class, "Our Mexican Neighbors", Mrs. Sylvia M. Jordan will feature straw and its products on next Monday evening, March 16. Mats, baskets, pictures, braided and woven products will be included.

The displays are set up in a room designated as the visual education room at Sunset School, and the day school teachers are taking advantage of the displays also, for the study of Latin America by the children.

H. S. Student Body Sponsors Musical

A musical play, "The Adventures of Marco Polo," will be presented Friday evening, March 20, at Sunset School, under the sponsorship of the Carmel High School.

This three-act music drama is being staged by the Junior Programs Company from New York City. Similar Junior Programs companies last year played to capacity audiences in Pacific Grove with Jack and the Beanstalk and Robinhood.

The Adventures of Marco Polo takes the exciting episodes in the early life of the famous explorer, based on thorough research, and weaves them into a spectacular production with authentic music of Italy, China and the songs and dances of courtiers, adventurers and sailors of that period. Sword dances in the resplendent court of the greatest monarch in history, Kublai Khan, will be enacted.

No other company of its kind tours so completely equipped with magnificent scenery, elaborate and authentic costumes and lighting. The unit carries its own switchboard, dozens of spotlights, footlights and floodlights.

Junior Programs, Inc., is a non-commercial enterprise with headquarters in New York City and is devoted to the production of children's entertainment and is approved by leading educators, child psychologists and specialists in such entertainment. On its advisory board are representatives of such organizations as the American Museum of Natural History, National Congress of Parents and Teachers, National Music League, and Teachers' College, Columbia University.

Miss Gladys Swarthout is National chairman, Miss Katherine Cornell, honorary chairman and Mrs. Dorothy McFadden is president. Among those on the national committee are such well known people as: Margaret Anglin, Jane Cowl, Richard Crooks, Dorothy Canfield Fisher, Helen Jepson, Tony Sarg, Mrs. Ernest Thompson Seton, Rise Stevens and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Tibbett.

The musical production is full of the glamour of distant countries and the dash and color of 13th century Venice. The evening performance in Carmel, while full of interest for children, will be the adult version as staged by the Programs Guild. The Junior Programs performances last year played to full houses in Pacific Grove, all seats being sold for Jack and the Beanstalk before the day of the operetta. All interested persons are urged to procure their tickets before the last day, since Junior Programs have a reputation of playing to sold out houses from one coast to the other.

Tickets for Marco Polo will be on sale at:

Carmel High School and Sunset School; also at Staniford's Drug Store. Price: Students, 25c, adults, 50c.

WHAT PRICE KEEP KEITH?

overwhelming support develops to retain Keith Evans as mayor, the new council might find it wise to over-ride tradition and keep in office a man who has such thoroughgoing confidence of the people. That is why these columns have been opened for the campaign—to discover the extent of the public confidence in Mr. Evans, how strong is the desire to keep him in office, or what opposition exists to the proposal.

There is no reason why the citizens shouldn't put what verbal pressure they like on the council, and it would be a stupid council that would ignore that pressure if it approached unanimity. But action should go no farther than a statement by the people of their preference. The council should retain its legal right to choose the mayor.

NOT GLAMOUR BUT VALOUR

There's a woman in Carmel who works eight hours at her job and then goes out to Yankee Point Observation Post to put in a two-hour shift as ground watcher before dinner. Her work is manual, requiring a heavy expenditure of physical energy, and she is not a young girl with a young girl's vitality.

Other women, shop owners, after a full day attending to business, give up their recreation time in the evening to do observation duty.

Eight of the men who watch from 12 at night until 6 in the morning have to work at their jobs next day.

Last week I spoke of poets and writers who serve at the observation post in the hope that I might interest volunteers by glamorizing the work through connecting it with glamorous names. If I created the impression that all the watchers are writers and poets, I want to correct that impression now.

Two-thirds of the observers are people who have full-time jobs in town, and though they are glad to serve and are not asking to be relieved entirely, some of the load should be taken from them.

Alternate and reserve observers are needed. Come into the Pine Cone office and sign up with Whit Wellman.

SHOE LEATHER AND FAMILY RELATIONS

Tire rationing may have a depressing effect on business in some instances, but it should prove to be a boon to health and family relations.

We shall have to start taking Sunday walks instead of Sunday drives.

Walking is good for what ails us.

Ranging freely over the countryside on foot is vastly preferred by the children to being cooped up in the car for long drives. So instead of begging to stay home as heretofore when the Sunday drive was proposed, the children will ask to come along on the Sunday walk, and bring their friends with them.

And if we climb over fences with reasonable alacrity, and know the names of certain wildflowers, trees and birds, the children may concede that we are "all right, I guess—kinda fun, maybe."

WE HAVE COME TO THIS

It looked like a museum piece when I pulled it out of the pile of press dispatches from the Automobile Association: "Safety Rules for Cyclists in Traffic."

But it's not a hangover from the eighteen-nineties. They mean it. With fewer tires, more people are bicycling and it follows that more people are getting killed while riding bicycles.

So when you get on your bicycle, here are some things to consider: As a cyclist you had better observe the same traffic rules that you followed as a motorist if you wish to survive.

Night bicycling is especially dangerous, and the Association suggests that you stay home at

POETRY

"12-6 A. M. WAR TIME"

(After R. J. on watch)

*These words I found
Written in the book,
"No report," it said,
"12-6 am. War Time."*

*Other words have been written
By the same hand—
"I lie and hear dark rain
Beat the roof and night-blind wind—"
Bringing other thoughts—"Praise life".
And again, "Love the wild swan".
Or "Until the mind has turned its love
From itself and man—from parts to the whole—"*

*—Until . . . until—how long? and when?
And then these words like the beating of sticks
On stretched pig skin—
"War time—war time!"*

—CONNIE BELL FLAVIN.

IF SPRING RETURNS . . .

*If Spring returns again to this sore earth
And cleanses it with green, if, past this cold
And bitter season of the world, Spring comes,
Touching the ruined pasture, tinting the hill
With her sweet pastel fingers, why should man
Doubt now that Beauty has forsaken them,
Or fear that, dying once, forever dead
They will remain?*

*Some tender Spring returns
Forever to the heart though it be reft—
Though towers be leveled, and the burning mind
Cry in its anguish, there is end to pain.
Spring will return to the ignoble earth,
Veiling the ruin of cities, covering rust:
Some dawn will find that Beauty is not slain.*

—WILLIS EBERMAN

THE SNOWFLAKES OF OUR DREAMING

*We shall watch the snow fall silver, blue and light, of its silence fashioning
the wonder of the night.*

*We shall wait the star-shine,
arms about each other;
heaven's holiness bent low,
my heart's only cover.*

*We shall wait the star-shine,
knowing that with dawn
the snowflakes of our dreaming . . .
somehow . . . will be gone.*

—ELOUISE E. ENGLISH.

THE CROSS

*Gray stone church by the sea,
Gold cross in the air,
Guard the blue miles,
Danger lies there.*

*Port of the soul,
Mischief may brew,
But wild hearts remember
Gold against blue.*

night unless you have to make an emergency trip—(on a bicycle—Lord save us!) In that case you should wear white clothing so you can be picked out more readily by car lights. Your bike should have headlight, and either a taillight or a red reflector.

Night or day you should ride near the right hand edge of the pavement, giving correct hand signals before turning, and obey all traffic signs and signals.

And as soon as I get one on how to preserve life and limb while riding an ostrich in traffic, I'll pass it on.

PINE CONE STAND ON SNAKES

The Pine Cone prefers to believe that St. Patrick did not drive the snakes out of Ireland. The Saint was a good, great and wise man, and a good, great and wise man would know that any country would be the poorer for not having snakes.

Consider what a lack there would be if somebody suddenly drove away our snakes: the rosy gopher snake that catches the rodents in the grain fields for the farmer; the little grey water snake with its yellow stripes that gives us the willies sailing by our nose when we are swimming in the pool under the willows, and does his part to keep the water pure for the trout we fish for all summer. The rattlesnake—It's difficult to find something to say in his favor other than that he makes it possible for Girl Scouts to win a badge for knowing how to cope with his bite.

But the king snake is a stout fellow, swallowing a rattlesnake every day before breakfast, for breakfast, for lunch, for dinner and for dessert.

I am not going into the matter of the boa-constrictors, cobras and pythons. They are not a burning question here in this country, and besides, I've said quite enough about snakes and not enough about St. Patrick.

He came first to Ireland as a slave among the white captives brought back by King Nial the First from a raid on Gaul. He escaped, entered holy orders, was consecrated as a bishop, and then returned to Ireland to wage a bloodless conquest on his former captors, winning them over to Christianity.

Only one martyr died for the Christianization of Ireland, and the death had been intended for the saint himself.

When St. Patrick was returning from Munster, a pagan chieftain formed a plan to murder him. Odran, charioteer of Patrick, discovered the chief's intentions, and saying nothing to the saint, changed seats with him so that he received the blow intended for his master.

TOO MUCH OF A BAD THING

There are too many "realistic lookers," roaming around loose. They're everywhere from Washington, D. C. to Ocean Avenue, and they are a plague.

A certain amount of realistic looking is necessary until all sides of a situation can be considered, good and bad, and until it can be decided what is to be done. From that point on, realistic looking should stop and imaginative looking begin.

We can't work constructively without imagination. We have to see in advance what we intend to accomplish before we can accomplish it. And how can we look imaginatively at our objective, foreseeing things as we intend to make them, and at the same time keep rubbing our noses in the facts as they are?

In handling our problems as a nation and as individuals we can allow ourselves to look realistically only long enough to assay the situation, after that, imagination must take over or we'll find ourselves facing more realism than even the realistic lookers bargained for.

The student court is finally in operation at Carmel High School. The students now are given their penalties by their own schoolmates.

A week ago Tuesday, the legislature, presided over by President Howard Levinson, passed the By-Laws of the student court. This followed the election by the legislature of Don Tocher as justice on Feb. 19.

When the first cases were tried on Thursday of this week, the court officials were: Don Tocher, justice; Martina Tait, court clerk; Harold Jones, prosecuting attorney; Eade Jordan, defense attorney; Janet Strassburger and Pamela Dormody, clerk committee. The jury consisted of Commissioner of Social Affairs Nancy Covert, Commissioner of Finance Pat Tarrant and Commissioner of Publicity Arnold Pilling.

The summons were first given out on Monday. By Thursday afternoon the students at High School realized that the Student Court was no plaything, but a good solution of the discipline problem.

The high school students have been called upon to act, and they have rallied to the flag. Carmel High School will do its part in this emergency by aiding the Civilian Defense.

Some 55 students represent Carmel High in the local Civilian Defense organization. These boys and girls are registered under four classifications: Auxiliary Fire Department, High School Fire Department, Fire Spotters and Messengers. Although the Auxiliary Fire Department is merely in the formative stage, the last three groups are ready for any emergency, whether it is tonight, tomorrow or six months from now.

A few of the high school students participating are: Juanita Baca, Ellsworth Montgomery, Walter Kane, Ben Stilwell, Lila Whitaker, Ray Kalfus, Jack Fremont, Eade Jordan, Angelo Lucido, Norvell Yerkes, Art Jones, Walter Warren, Jason Harbert, Bill Christerson, and Louis Levinson.

All these students are under the leadership of Jim Handley, chairman of the Junior Disaster Relief Committee.

Carmel High's Big Splash came at 4:30 Monday afternoon. Both the rooters and the swimmers had super fun watching the sport in Del Monte's Roman Plunge.

After all the points were counted, the score book showed the sophomores to be best all round swimmers, with 49 points. Then came the juniors, with the second biggest splash of 48 points; third were the freshmen with 39, and last with 38 were the humbled seniors. Each winner earned five points for his class. Second placers gave their rooters 3, and thirds only rated 2, and the fourths got 1 point. The actual winners were:

Free style for girls—won by Phyllis Jones (S) 27.1; 2nd, Carolyn Cory (F); 3rd, Edies Cox (Sr); Ruth Burrows (J).

Free style for boys—won by Fred Stanley (J) 22.0; 2nd, Jim Greenan (S); 3rd, Howard Levinson (Sr); 4th, Jack Fremont (S).

25-yard back-stroke for girls—Peggy Gargiulo (J) 16.6; 2nd, Mary Jean Mathews (S); 3rd, Nan Franser (F); 4th, Rose Mary Powell (J).

50-yard back stroke for boys—Fred Stanley (J) 28.9; 2nd, Bob Weir (F); 3rd, Hugh Gottfried (Sr); 4th, Bill Monroe (S).

25-yard breast stroke for girls—Carolyn Cory 17.9; 2nd, Rose Mary Powell (J); 3rd, Anne Hodgson (F).

50-yard breast stroke for boys—Toland Doud (Sr) 28.0; 2nd, Harold Jones (S); 3rd, Walter Kane (S); 4th, Fred Stanley (J).

Boys' handicap—1st, Jim Greenan (S) 58.3.

Ping pong race—won by Peggy Gargiulo (J); 2nd, Howard Levinson (Sr); 3rd, Harold Jones (S).

Free style relay—first place tied, seniors and sophomores; 3rd, juniors; 4th freshmen.

200 yards medley relay—1st, freshmen; 2nd, sophomores.

Following the example of the townspeople, Carmel High has developed a baseball team and it's out to win. Our first game, one for practice, will be called Friday, March 13.

Although the turnout for baseball last year was small, we have a lot of sluggers this year. The school is very enthusiastic about the coming season, and as proof, we have more games than any other peninsula team.

Baseball's following is shown by this list of 19 players and their positions.

Fred Stanley, catcher; Bill Kane, outfield; Bill Wishart, shortstop; Walter Kane, shortstop and outfield; Leo Juri, first base; Harold Jones, shortstop and outfield; Hugh Gottfried, first base; Don Tocher, left field; John Graham, outfield; Howard Levinson, short stop and outfield; Russ Bohlke, third base; Bill McKenzie, pitcher, catcher, outfield; Kenny Jones, second base; Howard Lockwood, pitcher; Willard Hillyer, shortstop; Gordy Miyamoto, pitcher; Jason Harbert, outfield; Milton Thompson, pitcher and Frank Gambee, third base.

The schedule was lately announced by Coach George Mosolf to be as follows: March 13, Monterey at Monterey; March 20, Monterey at Carmel; March 27, Pacific Grove at Carmel; April 10, Watsonville at Carmel; April 27, Santa Cruz at Santa Cruz; April 24, King City at Carmel; May 1, Monterey at Monterey; May 8, Salinas at Carmel; May 15, Hollister at Carmel.

First Symphony Thursday Night

The program promised by the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra for its concert at the Sunset Auditorium on Thursday evening, March 19, presents several of the most attractive excerpts from the symphonic and operative repertoire.

Chief among these are the "Surprise" symphony of Haydn, so-called because of its sudden loud chord in the slow movement, possibly designed to awaken any drowsy listeners, a practical joke on the composer's part, and the "Romeo and Juliet" fantasy-overture by Tchaikowsky, a most beautiful and stirring work. Operatic music is represented by a suite of five numbers from Bizet's "Carmen", the children's dream pantomime scene from "Hansel and Gretel" by Humperdinck, and the "March of the Mastersingers" which appears at the close of Wagner's opera "The Mastersingers." The concert will open with the overture "Russlan and Ludmila", by the Russian composer Glinka. Carl Bensberg, baritone, will sing the air from Wagner's "Tannhauser", "O Thou Sublime Sweet Evening Star", accompanied by the orchestra.

Jaffrey Harris, who will conduct the concert, is well versed in the operatic literature, having been chorusmaster for the British National Opera Company, some of whose conductors were John Barbirolli, conductor of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra and Sir Adrian Boult, now head of the British Broadcasting Company orchestra. Mr. Harris also toured the Eastern and Southern States and Canada as conductor for the American Opera Company. His symphonic experience is varied, including numerous concerts in New York City, and several years as head of one of the Federal Symphony Orchestras. Last summer Mr. Harris went East for his ninth annual performance of one of the Naumburg Memorial Symphony Concerts in New York City.

The above program was given at the Salinas High School auditorium last evening, when Miss Rachel Morton, dramatic soprano, sang the aria from "Cavalleria Rusticana."

REASON WHY SPEED ADDS TO TIRE WEAR

Fast driving causes increased wear of tires because the higher the speed the greater the friction between tire tread and road surface, according to the California State Automobile Association. Other tire-wearing practices are sudden starting and stopping, improper inflation, brakes in need of adjustment, and wheels out of alignment.

To the Editor

Dear Madam:

At a party the other night we were talking of ways of saving to do our part in helping win the war—and the rationing of sugar was discussed. Then came this idea—Why, during these times, when we have a few friends in for music, bridge or just talk—need we serve food? Why not cut out the extra, unnecessary eating—and the work it entails to prepare the food—and the sugar used in making cakes and cookies?

In these times—informal gatherings where friends can meet for pleasant, happy times, should be almost a "must"—a hostess can open some bottles of gingerale or root beer if she likes—but why anything more? Why not all of us promote this idea, use the time we would employ in the baking and making sandwiches—in knitting a few more rows in a navy sweater or doing more hours of defense work? Why not use the money we would spend on rich cakes and pastries in buying defense stamps. Let's get together and save... but still have fun.

Mrs. Myrtle Stoddard.

BETTER LIGHT for BETTER SIGHT

These are homey days, with the family auto restricted in use. There is fun and home-made relaxation within the family circle. Isn't it true in your household?

Consider this new appreciation of home that has come to all of us. Care and repair of clothes and the knitting of socks and sweaters keep needles flying in agile fingers. Good old games come into use or books set aside for future reading take on new interest. Truly hands and eyes are busy these days.

How easily we read or work or play depends on how easily eyes see to do these things. Just how easily we see depends greatly on the light by which eyes work. Conserve eyesight by Better Light for Better Sight. Equip your home with modern lamps and lighting fixtures. It is easy to do and costs very little.

Walkers Home from Texas—

The Alton Walkers arrived home Sunday, a month to the day from their departure for San Antonio, Texas.

They drove Mrs. Walker's sister, Sally Rogers, there for her wedding Valentine's Day to John D. Campbell. It was a marriage by long distance with the couple holding telephones at the altar of the First Presbyterian Church in San Antonio. Over the wires they heard the bride's father, the Rev. Harry C. Rogers speak the words of the ceremony in San Francisco and into the telephones they made their responses. In spite of the distance involved, the wedding went off right on the dot, the Walkers report.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Walker took something of a honeymoon themselves. They drove on to Kansas City where they visited Mr. Walker's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hayes Walker, for ten days before they began their trip home through the northern part of New Mexico and Arizona.

Although they did a great deal of luxurious driving, the Walkers say they still think the nicest part of going away is coming home.

John Shelby Metcalfe Leaves—

Here since Christmas, John Shelby Metcalfe has painted several portraits, four mural-like landscapes for Victor Graham's shop and Monday he finished a portrait of his daughter, Mary Jeanne.

Then Mr. Metcalfe departed for Oklahoma and Texas where a number of portrait commissions have been waiting for him since New Year's. He hopes to complete them and return to his family and Carmel by August.

Magees Return from Burlingame

Mr. and Mrs. John Magee of Pebble Beach have just returned from a stay at the Burlingame Country Club.

McCabes in Santa Rosa—

Mrs. W. H. McCabe, who teaches First Aid something like six nights and 12 days a week, took two days off last week-end.

She and Dr. McCabe went up to Oakland for a visit and then on to Santa Rosa to see Dr. McCabe's mother, Mrs. Ida McCabe.

Carmel Woman's Club Will Give Outdoor Flower Show

An outdoor flower show will be presented by the Garden Section of the Carmel Woman's Club when it plays hostess to the membership at the April meeting.

The attractive patio of La Ribera Hotel will be further graced on April 6 with all kinds of flower arrangements. And this charming spring display will not be confined to club members: the public is invited to attend, announces Mrs. F. W. Clappett, chairman of the section.

She has also arranged to have Miss Elsa Uppmann, head of the California School of Gardening at Stanford University, speak on the practical aspects of Victory gardens.

After the program, tea will be served in the patio.

Mrs. Clappett has as helpers on the show a committee made up of Mrs. Harry S. Nye, Mrs. William Francis Halyard, Mrs. Martin Flavin and Mrs. Saxton Pope.

Potted plants, cut flowers and vegetable seeds will be on sale at this affair with proceeds going to the Red Cross.

Tony Cunningham Down from Berkeley—

Young Tony Cunningham is here this week to visit his father, John Cunningham.

He has been staying in Berkeley with his mother, Patricia Cunningham, who is teaching in the art department at the University of California. Mr. Cunningham is instructor for the life class at the Adult School in Carmel.

Rachel Morton Sings for Soldiers

Sunday Rachel Morton and Ann Barrows sang for hospital inmates at Fort Ord. Mrs. Ralph Bisnett played the accompaniment.

All Carmel's Red Cross First Aid post workers assembled at the Church of the Wayfarer the other night. They turned off the lights and began to bandage each other like mad.

Their work was as rapid and as expert as when they wind up the tricky bandages in the light, Mrs. W. H. McCabe, their exacting teacher, reports.

Nominating Committee Isn't Telling—

The nominating committee of the Carmel Woman's Club has its slate of new officers all picked out—and a very good one, it will tell you. Who heads it or even any clue as to who is on it will not, however, be given out.

This is said to be the earliest in the year that all nominations for new officers have ever been completed, but that does not alter matters for curious club members in the least. April is the month for making the nominating committee's report known and so until April everyone—including the officers to be—will have to wait.

The report will only be shared with the board of directors when it convenes Monday at La Ribera.

MacPhails Stop in Passing—

Mr. and Mrs. Archibald MacPhail, one time owners of The Pine Cone, spent Monday evening with Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Hudson. The former Carmel residents were en route from their home in Palo Alto to Los Angeles.

Mrs. Stoddard Moves—

Mrs. Myrtle Stoddard recently entertained a group of friends at a housewarming when she moved into her new apartment.

Guests: Mr. and Mrs. John Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. Jaffrey Harris, Major and Mrs. D. J. Michaels, Major Robert Mathews, Miss Ann Barrows, Captain and Mrs. Jack Beck.

John Short Ready to Sail—

Marie Short's son, John, has been building ships, but he wasn't satisfied because he didn't feel that he was doing enough.

He has enlisted in the merchant marine and he and Bill Dickinson are both waiting to pick up their dunnage bags and embark at any minute.

Jacky Cagwin Home from T. H.—

The Howard E. Smith's daughter, Jacqueline (Mrs. Leland Cagwin), has arrived home from Honolulu and will stay with her parents for the duration.

She reports that her husband has been promoted from the rank of second to first lieutenant. He was graduated from West Point with the class of 1940.

Mrs. Cagwin spent her first night on the mainland with her sister, Mrs. John Archer Logan, in Berkeley. Her visit included an inspection of her newly arrived nephew, Thomas Jackson Logan.

In happier times only a few months ago, Jacky Cagwin was selected by Look Magazine for an article and picture of a typical Army wife in Honolulu.

Alice Vidoroni Governing Again—

President of the Carmel High School student body last spring, Alice Vidoroni, has just been elected to new governmental duties at Mills College.

She will represent her dormitory, Meadow Hall, on the student body council.

In a few short months, Alice is already helping to represent the whole college in sports. She is on the Mills golf team and played recently against Stanford.

Harris Entertain at Dinner—

Rachel Morton and Jaffrey Harris were hosts at dinner one evening last week to Mr. and Mrs. William O'Donnell and Mr. and Mrs. Leo Ross.

Carol Steinbeck's Sister Home—

Here with Carol Steinbeck for the week-end was her sister, Mrs. Paul Budd, who has just arrived from Honolulu with her small daughter, Carla.

When the blitz came to Honolulu, Carla was celebrating her one-month birthday. If you can tell anything about babies, she is awfully glad to be on the mainland and so, needless to say, is her mother.

Women Make 1700 Six-Yard Bandages

More than 1700 roller bandages for use in leper hospitals have been completed by the members of the Carmel Missionary Society since last they sent bandages to Dr. George Thorne at his station in the leper hospital in the Cameroon mountains, West Africa.

Dr. Thorne grew up and went through school in Pacific Grove, and the women of the peninsula have been active for years in assisting his work.

This year, due to the war, it is not possible to send the bandages to Africa, as no missionaries can get to this country on furlough, but the national office of the American Red Cross has undertaken to see that the bandages are delivered to a leper hospital in need of them. The bandages must be delivered first to the regional headquarters in Los Angeles of the American Mission to Lepers, who will turn them over to the Red Cross. This arrangement was made after much correspondence by Mrs. Evelyn Bancroft, president of the peninsula Council of Church Women.

Women of Carmel have been working for approximately 15 years on bandages, which they have at intervals sent on their humanitarian way. They accept old sheets and pillow cases from interested persons, tear and sew them into bandages six or seven yards long and roll to convenient size. Worn pieces too weak or too small for bandages are used in hospital work among the Monterey Chinese for eye treatments and the like. For some years Mrs. Cora Newton has had charge of

Two New Novels Will be Reviewed Wed.

Two popular new books, "Wind-swept" by Mary Ellen Chase, and "Saratoga Trunk", by Edna Ferber—will be reviewed Wednesday for the Book Section of the Carmel Woman's Club.

Miss Betsy T. Lull is to be the speaker and Mrs. Harry S. Nye, chairman of the section, will preside.

The reviews will be given at Hotel La Ribera Wednesday morning at 10:30 o'clock.

The Missionary Society will hold its next meeting on Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Church of the Wayfarer, with Dr. George C. Southwell of Los Angeles speaking on the leper work. Every one interested in the subject is invited to attend.

NUTRITION CLASSES—

Because civilian health and morale are of such vital importance, the Carmel Chapter of the American Red Cross has arranged a series of lectures under competent teachers to instruct the general public on food values.

Realizing that this war is the greatest challenge home economists have ever had, these lectures are planned to meet the challenge of how to maintain the health of the family with present-day food shortages and substitutes. It has been said that health is a positive glowing thing and these classes will help us to retain national health. Two nutrition courses are now in progress, one on Monday evenings under Mrs. Helen Poulson from 7:30 to 9:30 at the Church of the Wayfarer, Lincoln avenue, and the other class on Thursday morning, under Miss Martha Groth, also from 7:30 to 9:30 and this, too, is at the Church of the Wayfarer.

CANTEEN CORPS—

There's a new and vital job for the women of Carmel today. This is a class about to be launched to train women for group feeding in the event of disaster. The 10-hour course covers food selection, preparation and service under emergency conditions. Canteen aides will be expected to take the nutrition course and will be given responsibility for group feeding should the need arise.

The first lectures under Miss Mary Camp are expected to start very shortly—and you are asked to enroll in the first class. Call the Red Cross headquarters No. 382.

SECOND NURSES AID COURSE

Course will start on March 30 at La Playa Hotel at 9 a. m.

Applicants must be between the ages of 18 and 50. In good health and able to give their services when called.

Starting March 1 the Red Cross headquarters of the Carmel Chapter of the American Red Cross will be open from 10 a. m. until 4:30 p. m. and all day Saturday.

It has been usual in the past to keep the Red Cross headquarters open only Monday through Friday.

From now on it will be open Monday through Saturday and an information and registration desk will be under the staff assistants corps during those hours.

Mrs. Lucius Parks of Fresno is visiting her daughter, Mrs. A. A. Arehart of Monterey for the week. Mrs. Parks has a home here in Carmel and is a frequent summer visitor.

St. Patrick's Tea—

Mrs. E. B. Grigg and Mrs. A. A. Arehart of Monterey are in charge of Bundles for Bluejackets' tea to be given next Tuesday, St. Patrick's Day, at La Ribera.

The affair will be a bridge tea and will commence at 2 o'clock for those who wish to play cards. Those who do not may come later for the tea party, the hostesses announced.

Tickets may be obtained from Mrs. Grigg, Mrs. Arehart or at the door.

Guests are requested to bring their own cards and score pads.

The Reams Honeymoon—

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Reams (Carol Larson) will live at Ord Village when they return from a honeymoon.

They were married last Friday in St. John's Chapel, Del Monte, by the Rev. Theodore Bell. The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Trueman Scarlett.

Colomes Have an Heir—

A boy was born to Jaime and Rosamond Colome at the Peninsula Community Hospital Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Colome is the former Rosamond Stanley and is an instructor in the art department at the University of California. She is the sister of Mrs. John Cunningham.

Joey Perry Son Is One—

Mr. and Mrs. Joey Perry gave their son, Leonard, ice cream at his first birthday celebration last Friday.

The experiment would certainly be of interest to any psychologists who may think ice cream is a natural taste: Leonard did not like it at all well.

But he had a wonderful time playing with it so the party was a success anyway. It was held at the home of Mrs. Perry's sister, Mrs. Bill Thornton, in Monterey and Leonard's cousin, Patty, aged 3, attended.

The Perrys stopped off for this birthday luncheon on the way home from Santa Cruz. Mrs. Perry and Leonard have spent the last three weeks there visiting Mrs. Perry's parents, the W. W. Smiths. Mr. Perry meanwhile went to Los Angeles. He picked up his family Friday and all are now back in their Carmel home.

Barbara Babcock Is Five —

Her classmates in her dancing class at Ruth Austin's were Barbara Babcock's guests for her fifth birthday celebration last Friday.

The little girls who gathered to play games and eat all kinds of iced goodies were Phyllis Burnett, Mary Ann Odell, Carol Ann Rice, Sondra Sowell, Gretchen Herron and Renee Wurzmann.

Their mothers were the guests of Barbara's mother, Mrs. Conrad Stanton Babcock, at tea.

Sonia Noskowiak, sister of Mrs. Babcock, was also present at her niece's birthday party. A former Carmel resident, Miss Noskowiak moved her photographic studio to San Francisco. She spent the week-end with the Babcocks.

SUNSET STUDENTS BUY DEFENSE STAMPS

Bank Day became also Defense Stamp Day at Sunset School yesterday.

From now on Defense Stamps will be on sale every Thursday at the time the children bank their weekly savings.

Sunset School Notes

47, 48, 49, 50 are the numbers we hope we'll be hearing every Friday for the next three weeks as the two girls count the cans which they collect for the P-T. A. plant sale. These cans are being collected in each room from the first grade up. A large poster on the bulletin board will show which room is ahead in the drive. Hot sauce and soup cans are needed.

Mary Gregory, Grade 7. Soon the children of Sunset will be flying their kites, for on March 28 comes the Kite Festival. This year ribbons will be given instead of prizes.

—Sheila Whitaker, Grade 6. Intramural baseball has started at Sunset School. The managers are Bob Bell, Max Hodges, Jerry Shepherd, and Don Burge. The first game was played last Thursday.—Mike Monahan, Grade 6.

In science we are studying about dogs, and the whole class made up a poem about one. Here it is:

I have a shaggy little dog
Short and stubby, too.
Her ears are long,
Her tail is short,
Her name is Susie Q!
She'll sit up and say her prayers
In the morning and at night.
She'll cross her paws and sit up straight,
And close her eyes, so tight!
—Grade 5.

Our room is working for the Red Cross. We are making scrapbooks, cloth animals and bibs. We are also binding a baby blanket, knitting an afghan, and dressing four dolls. These are all for Chinese orphans. — Mary Eleanor Horne, Grade 4.

Reasons why some second grade children have planted vegetable gardens:

Betty Jean DeAmaral—I planted mine for the P-T. A.

Lee Poulsen—I like to eat raw vegetables right from the plants.

John Lodmell — The farmers give the vegetables to the soldiers and sailors so they can get strong, so we have to plant our own.

Erin McCawley — We want a garden for ourselves and also for my father when he comes home. He is a major now.

Miss Schnabel's first grade has been entertaining other classes with their newly-acquired phonograph records of "Babar"—the king of the elephants. According

Vital Food Knowledge Given P-T. A. Mothers

By MRS. WALTER J. BARRY

Growth of the subject of nutrition from a hundred years ago to its present state as a true science was the topic on which Miss Mildred Krohn of the State Board of Health spoke to Carmel P-T. A. Tuesday.

A fair-sized number of Carmel mothers braved the rain to learn how to feed Junior and Judy adequately now that food rationing is becoming a major problem.

Miss Krohn warned her audience not to sacrifice calories, proteins and minerals for mere vitamin content in food. All four elements are important.

To milk of course, she gave first place. A quart a day is a must for the growing child because it requires impossible amounts of other foods to equal the necessary elements that are contained in milk. So no matter if milk prices are soaring to ambitious heights, milk is still our most economical food. Cheese of the cheddar variety is an adequate substitute, a third of a pound being equal to a quart of milk. Water cress, cabbage and green peppers have very rich supplies of vitamin C, which is usually associated with citrus fruits.

Use the dark green outside leaves of lettuce; they contain to Arleigh Jones they are "super!"

ANNUAL KITE FESTIVAL—

The kite spirit has come in with March and the fever is spreading. Already about 25 kites are in the making.

The Kite Festival will be held on the high school grounds Saturday, March 28. This year ribbons will be the prizes, the same as for horse shows and dog shows. Blue ribbon, first prize; white, second; red, third.

more vitamin A than the fancier light green inner leaves. Miss Krohn urged an egg at least every other day and a quarter pound of meat, not counting meat or bone, or a protein substitute, for a growing child. The value of meat, she said, is in the meat itself and not the broth. She stressed the value of liver and kidneys and that pork liver is richest in iron content.

Very important are the whole grain cereals. Oat meal leads the list and 100 per cent wheat bread and brown rice for the cereal germ that contains vitamin B, so necessary for proper growth.

Children will require different amounts of foods according to their temperaments.

Mrs. Frank Timmins, president, officiated at a short business meeting before Miss Krohn's talk.

Keep Keith Evans as Mayor, Urge Friends

think that the issue should be made plain before the election takes place in order to avoid confusion. The question then is how can it be done? Would a petition to the present council be in order, or could we use the write-in system on the ballot? Maybe we need some slogans—IF ROOSEVELT COULD DO IT EVANS CAN; or KEEP KEITH FOR CARMEL.

Sincerely,
MARION HOWES.

The Pine Cone, in an effort to determine the strength of the Keep Keith Movement, discussed the issue with a selection of Carmel voters and discovered that of the people interviewed none had any criticism for Evans as an individual or as a public official. Almost all were enthusiastic over the way he had conducted his office.

The split came over whether he should be kept in at the price of changing the traditional system of the council's choosing for mayor the incoming member with the greatest popular vote.

Of those who wanted to Keep Keith even at the cost of introducing legislation to make it possible were: Daisy Bostick, Kip Silvey, Peter Burke, Fred Bechdolt. Those who were unwilling to see a change in the traditional system were: Otto W. Bardarson, Doc Staniford, Corum Jackson, Elizabeth McClung White.

Peter Burke's statement: "He is a splendid man and should be kept on as mayor and we should take action if necessary. He is level-headed and calm. It is not easy to come by men like that."

Doc Staniford: "I like Keith personally but, like a football team, the council is better able to decide for itself who it wants for a leader than outsiders. I'd like to see the council choose him, but it should be left up to the council."

Fred Bechdolt: "Under present conditions, I think it would be wise to keep the present mayor even if we have to take legislative action. We should not swap horses now."

Otto W. Bardarson: "The council should be left to make its own choice because it knows all the elements that might be involved. I have a great personal admiration for Keith Evans."

Corum Jackson: "I would be opposed to making any change in the present method of selecting a mayor."

Kip Silvey: "A very able mayor. He should be retained and action should be taken if necessary."

Elizabeth McClung White: "The Council should be allowed to handle the matter."

Daisy Bostick: "I don't believe that they can get any man who will fill that position any more efficiently than Keith. I believe whatever action is necessary to keep him should be taken."

Pine Cone Snake Poll Unanimous Affirmative

And Billy Burke, astonished that anybody could even question the fact: "Sure he drove them out. I remember it well. I was there."

A distressing incident occurred toward the end of the poll when, for a moment, it appeared that the affirmative response would not be unanimous.

An Irishman—the Pine Cone mercifully maintains silence as to his name—beetled his brows at the reporter and said: "That he did not. The snakes all starved to death during the potato famine. That's why there are no snakes in Ireland."

Fifteen minutes later a shamed voice over the telephone stated:

"Of course the good St. Patrick drove the snakes out of Ireland. When you spoke to me I had just got into town after a winter of trapping in the hills, and found out I had to file my income tax returns this week-end. It was a black mood I was in. That's why I said so wicked a thing."

Non-wearers of the Green

And how about the non-Irish? They believe, or at least want to believe.

Wick Parsons: "There are no snakes in Ireland, then St. Patrick must have driven them out—absolutely."

Doc Staniford: "When he drove the snakes out of Ireland he must have driven a lot of them over here, and I'd not wish them back in Ireland, but I'd just as soon see them in Japan, Italy or Germany."

Fred McIndoe: "I prefer to believe he drove them out."

Lee Crowe: "I wouldn't like to break with tradition."

Doc Randol: "He drove out the good ones. Wish he'd come back and drive out the bad ones now."

Joe Catherwood: "Sure he did. And some got over here."

Wishful Realists

A few realists, on the fence, but with the wistful look that haunts the eyes of realists when confronted with romance:

Edward Kuster: "I can't speak for Ireland, but refer you to Honolulu. They have no snakes there, either."

Saidee Van Brower: "I can't make a statement about St. Patrick as there is no Irish blood in me. I wish there were."

Mrs. Walter J. Barry: "They say St. Patrick drove the snakes out of Ireland, but I was out of town the week he did, and I can't say."

Ross Worsley Sings Saturday

receive the approbation of those who have for so long been loyal to the society.

Ross Worsley will be remembered for his fine singing in the Bach Festival.

He possesses a bass-baritone voice of remarkable richness and power. His singing has everywhere delighted his audiences with its warmth and conviction. His sensitive interpretation of German lieder, and his vigorous and thrilling rendition of songs by American composers, will convince his audience of the fact that he has "everything for success." This young singer is on his way to the top, and the forthcoming concert will be one that we shall probably look back upon with pride in the years to come. Many great artists have performed in Carmel when they were still on the way to fame, and Ross Worsley bids fair to be one of them.

Accompanying the singer at the piano is Ralph Linsley, already well known in Carmel music circles for the beauty and distinction of his playing. Together these two fine artists will present a program which no music lover can afford to miss. Tickets may be procured at the headquarters of the Carmel Music Society opposite the Library, Ocean avenue, phone 62.

The program is as follows:

Thanks to Thee (Handel); My Faith Shall Resplendent Shine (Handel); On de music (Schubert); Im Fruhling (Schubert); Der Lindenbaum (Schubert); Gruppe aus dem Tartarus (Schubert); Le Secret (Faure); La Plaine (Georges); Stornello (Cimara) and songs by American composers after the intermission.

Hayes Will Sing On USO Program

An event of the greatest interest to all music lovers of the Monterey Peninsula will take place Sunday, March 15 at the USO Clubhouse, Webster and El Estero streets, Monterey, when the distinguished Negro tenor, Roland Hayes, will give a recital for the men of the armed forces and their civilian friends. Mr. Hayes, whose last Peninsula appearance was for the Carmel Music Society in 1934 has been spending a few days in the Carmel Valley resting up from a busy season of making recordings for Columbia and from a long and arduous concert tour of the principal American cities. He has kindly consented to prolong his visit in order to take part in the National USO Open House. Those who attended the concert on Sunday will have an ample opportunity to enjoy the art of a man who has been acclaimed by the best critics not only of this country but by those of Europe as well, as the greatest American exponent of the art of song, for Mr. Hayes will sing a group of songs in German, French and Italian, as well as of spirituals. Among his selections will be several which he has just recorded, notably a most unusual African chant which last week's New Yorker reviewed in most glowing terms.

First Rifle Class Has 21 Enthusiasts

Participants will receive instruction in the care, handling and proper use of both rifles and side arms, Mr. Comstock and Clarence Tarr serving as instructors.

The class met with enthusiastic support. Registration for the first class was completed and closed, but it is the plan to start additional classes when facilities are available. Those interested in participating in future classes may register with Miss Prewett at the Carl S. Rohr Electric Shop.

Participants in the first class are Miss Barbara Brooks, Miss Sue Brooks, Mrs. Susanne E. Clark, Miss Madeleine Higley, Arthur Jones, Mrs. C. B. Jackson, Mrs. C. J. Lockwood, Howard Lockwood, Mrs. G. A. Moller, Mrs. Elizabeth T. Morse, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Neikirk, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Nielsen, Miss Kathleen G. Prewett, Mr. and Mrs. Carl S. Rohr, Richard M. Rohr, Arthur Staie, Miss Doris Staie, Mrs. George Woolsey and Miss LaVerne DeAmaral.

Classes are held on Wednesday and Saturday nights at 7:30.

DAKOTA ALABASTER HERE

A soldier from South Dakota tipped Ellen Habenicht of the Sketch Box off to the charm of objects fashioned from the alabaster of his native state.

Mrs. Habenicht found attractive vases, book ends and lamps in the alabaster and now has the exclusive agency for them in Carmel.

Detective Story Movie Attraction

Carmel Theater offers today and tomorrow, with Saturday matinee, "Blue, White and Perfect", starring Lloyd Nolan and Mary Beth Hughes. The companion piece is Chic Young's comic strip come to screen life, "Blondie Goes to College", with Penny Singleton and Arthur Lake. Cast in a prominent role in America's favorite film family is Jonathan Hale, who played in many a stage play at Carmel Playhouse under his real name, Arthur Hatley, notably in Kuster's production of "Art and Mrs. Bottle". The three-day program starting with Sunday's continuous show, beginning at 2:00 o'clock, presents two leading pictures, "Remember the Day", with Claudette Colbert and John Payne, and the Technicolor "Fiesta", a riot of music, dance, comedy and color starring little Armida, the brightest spot in the recent "South of Tahiti." A recent March of Time issue, "Far East Commands", rounds out the bill.

One of the season's best comes to Carmel Theater next Wednesday, March 18, for a two-day showing, being "The Men in Her Life", starring Loretta Young, supported by Conrad Veidt. Said to rival "Lydia" in its charm, this film has sent the star's stock soaring to new heights. The companion comedy, "Henry Aldrich for President", is a rib-tickler of first quality, offering an attractive group of fresh faces and young actors.

AUDUBON CLUB MEETS

The animal life of tidewater pools will be described Saturday for the Monterey Peninsula Audubon Club by Dr. Rolf Bolin of the Hopkins Marine Station.

The public is invited to attend the lecture and colored films which will be presented at 2 p. m. in the Pacific Grove Museum.
